

John Terry reinstated as England football captain

By Sam Robinson

13 months ago John Terry was dropped as England captain due to issues with his private life. He was reinstated controversially on Monday 21st march 2011.

On Monday Terry was made captain again. After the decision was made public, the Chelsea captain received a call from Rio Ferdinand, who was the captain but has been recently injured. He reportedly said to him “I’m not happy about being stripped of the captaincy, but I’m glad that we will be winning the games even without me.” John explained during a press conference “Rio phoned me, which was a very nice touch and goes to show what a good man he really is.”

Match Of The Day host, Gary Lineker thought “It’s a bit of a smack in the face for Steven Gerrard and Rio Ferdinand.” He was also critical at Cappello’s decision.

